BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL NOTE

Kathryn Enid Emerson (1940-2004) was a long-time resident of Ann Arbor, Michigan, where she worked for many years on civil rights and other social causes, including welfare rights and welfare reform, women's rights, and anti-war efforts.

Dr. James Clarence Buntin was born July 6, 1921, in Boston, Massachusetts. He was a Navy veteran of both World War II and the Korean War. Dr. Buntin received Bachelor and Master's degrees from Springfield College in Massachusetts, and taught in the Springfield Public Schools from 1949 to 1950. He then earned a Masters of Education degree from University of Arizona in 1954, and worked as a teacher, counselor, psychometrist, child welfare and attendance counselor, and as assistant director of long-range planning for the Stockton, California, Unified School District from 1954 to 1969. Dr. Buntin earned his PhD from the University of Michigan School of Education in 1972, and was an administrator and teacher in the Ann Arbor Public Schools. Dr. Buntin died on August 28, 1998.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The Kathryn Emerson and Dr. James C. Buntin Papers are arranged in six series, with one addendum.

The Kathryn Emerson series consists of correspondence, publications, community organization material, mental health and child welfare publications and newsletters, and welfare activism material related to Ms. Emerson's work and life in the Ann Arbor and Southeastern Michigan area.

The Dr. James C. Buntin series includes correspondence, publications, photographs, and educational program material related to Dr. Buntin's work in elementary and multi-cultural education. Also included are materials describing his early education, doctoral work at the University of Michigan, and employment and work in the Stockton (Calif.) and Ann Arbor (Mich.) school systems.

The Periodicals and Reports series consists periodicals and academic and professional reports primarily focused on African American history and multi-cultural education.

The Interviews series consists of two audio interviews with family members of Ms. Emerson and Dr. Buntin.

The Ephemera series is made up of clothing, protest and informational posters, clippings and advocacy buttons. Researchers should note that the clothing and accessory items are housed and shelved separately from the rest of the collection.

The Books series and Books Addendum series consists of several hundred books considered to be from the personal library of Dr. Buntin.
